CAUGHT AFTER A LONG CHASE. THE LAST OF THE ASTORIA MASKED BOBBARS IN PRISON AFIRE FOUR YEARS.

Inspector Murray, with Sergeant Weasim and Roundsman Tierney, arrested exterday afternoon Lawrence, alias "Son," Madden, a burglar, the sixth and last of the band which on the night of December 22, 1876, percetrated one of the holdest outsizes on the criminal records of this city. Six men on that night rowed across the East River in a boat from the Fourth Ward to Astorna, broke into the souse of Mr. Hillyer, a broker doing business in this city, and robbed and abused the inmates. The members of the family, including Mr. Hillyer's young daughters, were roused from their beds and made to sulomit under threats of instaut death, to being robbed of everything there was in the house of yaine.

young daughters, were roused from shell being robbed of everything there was in the house of value.

The rabbars were masks and carried clubs and revolvers. After ransacking the house they went to Green's Hotel, on the Astoria shore, and there frightened lifteen persons into submission to their rude demands for money. They held complete possession of the house for an hour or more, and drank and caroused to their hearts' content. On their way back to their boat at last, they assaulted a man whom they encountered, stripped him, and left him, plandered and almost naked, by the way side. On their return to this city, the robbers quarrelled about the division of the plunder, and Law rence Madden, the leader, shot 'Fatty' Farrell, one of the band, in the arm. The disturbance was quelled, however, and all escaped, seeking retuge among the low resorts of the Fourth Precinct.

The outrage caused great excitement, and the police put forth strenuous efforts to capture the burglars. On January 3, 1877, Inspector Murray, then Captain of the Fourth Precinct, arrested four of them in their hiding place in Water-st. They were John James, alias "Fatty' Farrell; John Roberts, John Reilly, and John McCarthy. They were put on trial, and Reilly turned State's evidence. He was sentenced to eighteen years' imprisonment. John McCarthy was sent to prison for twenty years, and John Roberts for twenty, but he has since been pardoned by Governor Robinson. John James was found guilty of robbery on two indictments, and was sentenced to imprisonment for thirty-five years in all.

The leaders of the band, Patrick Purcell and Lawrence Madden, had escaped. They were sought in vain until a year ago, when Purcell, with two others, masked as on the occasion of his former exploit, plundered the house of Mr. Engle, in Englewood, New-Jersey. All three were arreated at Fortieth-st. and Ninth-ave. by Inspector Murray and his men, and Purcell received a sentence of times ty ears imprisonment at hard labor. Nothing was heard of Madden, but the pursuit wa

The bark Fillan, from Lisbon, brought to this port the captain and twelve of the crew of the Norwegian bark Equity, from Doboy, Ga., for Cardiff, with lumber. The Equity encountered a hurricane March 1, in which the vessel sprung a seriogs leak. The crew worked incessantly at the pumps for forty-eight hours, but the water gained is depth of eight feet in the hold. The Pillan then came in sight, and it being impossible to keep the Equity aftoat many days, it was determined to abandon ner. Second Officer Rodick, of the crew of the Equity, was found last night at No. 8 Carlislest, and gave the following account of the loss of the bark: "On the morning of March I we were in latitude 32°, longitude 69°. Shortiy after daylight the wind from the west freshened steadily, and by 12 o'clock was blowing a gale. We still kept before it under reefed soils until about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. At 3 o'clock the carpenter reported that the planking of the stern had been started by the heavy beating of the waves, and tha the bark was leaking badly. Soundings showed four feet of water in the hold. The vessel was hove to underclose-reefed lower sails and all hands were called to the pumps. We had three pumps—two worked by hand and one wind-pump. For three days the men worked incessantly, but could not reduce the depth of water nor prevent its steady increase. As we lay-to, the seas broke over us and swept the bark broadside. On the morning of March 3 it was decided to take to the boats, as the bark bad eight and a half feet of water in her hold and was in danger of going down. At 10 o'clock another bark, under close canvas and lying-to, drifted in sight. We put up a signal of distress, which was answered, and we set this had to be made between the two vessels before all of our crew were transferred. On the afternoon of

With her face almost entirely hidden from view by bandages and plasters, Mrs. Ann Cregan, of No. 410 Last Seventy-sixth-st., appeared before Justice Murray at the Yorkville Police Court yesterday as complainant against her husband Thomas, whom she charged with assault and battery. She said that Thomas, while under the influence of liquor, Sunday night had knecked her down and brutally beaten and kicked her about the head, face and body. He was still engaged in maltreating her when interrupted by Detective Campbell, who took him into custody. One month ago, Cregan was sent to the Island for three months for the same offence, but by sene unknown influence was released after serving a few days. Justice Murray

Three months ago James Cummings, of No. 326 East Siztieth-st., procured a warrant for the arrest of his wife Johanna, on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. To escape the officer who was sent to arrest her, Johanna jumped from the second story window of her home to the street, breaking her arm and sustaining injuries which necessitated her removal to Bellevue Hospital, where she was confined about two months. She was then sent to the Workhouse for one month, and was discharged last Friday. Sunday night in a drunken frenzy she assaulted her husband, who is a small man, and gave him a severe beating. He caused her arrest, and she was taken before Justice Murray at the Yorkville Police Court yesterday. At the earnest request of her husband she was committed to the Workhouse for one year.

TEMPERANCE METHODS IN ENGLAND.

A meeting of the clergy and laity of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this city and its vicinity was heid yesterday morming in Grace Hall, in East Fourteenth-st., to listen to an address by Robert Graham, of England, on the workings of the Church of England. Temperance Society, of which he is the general secretary. The society, Mr. Graham said, is under the patronage of the Queen, and has for its presidents the Archbishops of Canterbury and York. It numbers among other members Bishop Lightfoot, the Bishop of Rochester, Capon Farrar Prince Leopold and the Dukes of Westminster, Marlborough and Leeds. It is divided into twenty diocesan branches. The society includes both non-abstainers and abstainers, and has two pledges. The first reads: "I recognize my duty as a Christian to exert myself for the suppression of intemperance, and having hereby become a member of the society, will do my utmost to promote its objects." The second is: "I promise, by God's help, to abstain from all intoxicating liquors as beverages, and to discountenance all the causes and practices of intemperance, and will try to persuade others to do the same." Juvenile branches are established for children between the ages of seven and seventeen years.

After some discussion it was resolved by those present to form a Church Temperance Society on the English plan, with the Presiding Bishop as president, and the bishops of each diocese as vice-presidents. A committee, composed of the Rev. Drs. Potter, Wildes, De Costa, McKim, Beach, Huntington, Williams, and the Rev Mesars. Langford and C. B. Smith, was appointed to draft rules for the society.

It also approved of starting a mission in the neighborhood of First-ave, and One-hundred-and-twenty-third-st. The report was adopted. The Rev. Dr. Bevan strongly disapproved the example set by the city authorities in engaging men to labor in the streets on Sunday, and recommended the subject to the attention of the Sabbath Committee.

MR. SOUTHWORTH CROSS-EXAMINED. MR. CHAMBERLAIN NOT SATISFIED WITH HIS EX-AMINATION OF THE FXHIBITS-SIMULATION AND DISSIMULATION OF HANDWRITING.

ANINATION OF THE FXHIBITS—SIMULATION AND DISSIMULATION OF HANDWRITING.

At the Whittaker court-martial yesterday, Mr. Chamberlain said he desired to make several statements before proceeding with the cross-examination of Albert G. Southworth. Owing to the fact that he had not been given full facilities for examining the exhibits before the Court, he was not wholly prepared to proceed in the case. He has desired to examine the original note of warning under a microscope, but he was not peralited to remove it from under the glass plate that covered it. This examination would be of great importance, as the witness only claimed to see the tracings of the underwritings plainly in the photograph of the original note of warning should be graph of the original note of warning should be granted to examine the original net of warning should be granted to examine the original net of warning under a magnifying glass; that permission should be given to examine the original negatives from which the photographs were taken; that he should be allowed to take into his hands for careful examination all the diagrams, except those of the tracings; and that the negatives from which the tracings were made should be produced in Court. Major Gardner said in reply that the note of warning might be so examined in his presence and a photograph taken of it. The original negatives could also be examined under his own supervision, but he could not permit the exhibits in the case to pass into the coursel's hands to be taken from the houlding. Photographs might be made of them, but that would be expensive. A member of the Court thereupon remarked that photographs should be taken if necessary, if the case should cost $100,000.

In answer to Mr. Chamberlain, the witness said that dissimulation, as he used the word, was an attempt to discourse and a photographs to discourse and a photograph to discourse and used the word, was an attempt to discourse and a photograph should be taken if necessary, if the case should cost $100,000.

be taken if necessary, if the case should cost $100,000.

In answer to Mr. Chamberlain, the witness said that dissimulation, as he used the word, was an attempt to disguise and was less in degree than disguise. It generally required more of an erfort to dissimulate one's handwriting than to imitate another's. To dissimulate one's handwriting it was necessary to have a copy before the eye, at least, to change it much. He thought that he could tell whether or not the edges of two pieces of paper corresponded in ninety-nine cases ont of a hundred where no effort to disguise had been made. The witness was handed ten pieces of paper, and requested to demonstrate his ability in matching the edges; he took them with the understanding that the work was to be done at his leisure. The note of warning, he continued, when first placed in his hands, had characteristics that created a suspicion in his mind that there was either simulation or dissimulation in the writing. At the same time he had a specimen of Cadet Whittaker's writing in his possession, but the hand was so masked that he was afraid to make any use of it. The opinion was then expressed by him that the hand that wrote the specimen also wrote the note of warning.

Mr. Southworth went to the blackboard and wrote the name Whittaker several times, crossing the lines at different angles to illustrate the way in which the underwritings had been originally made.

Mr. Chamberlain – What was the writer's object

Mr. Chamberlain-What was the writer's object in making those words on the note?

as copies, so that the writer could avoid his natural handwriting.

"Would it not have been more natural to have practised on another piece of paper?"

"The sheet of paper on which the note was written had a mate that has never been seen, and I have reason to suppose that the writer also practised on it. Cadet Whittaker had little paper at hand at the time, as his application to the quarter-master for a new supply shows. This fact, with his peculiar condition of mind at the time of writing, would have induced him to do it in that way."

The Court then adjourned until 11 a. m. to-day, when the cross-examination will be resumed.

MEETING OF THE COMMISSIONERS. STILL HOPEFUL OF THE SUCCESS OF THE PROJECT FOR A WORLD'S FAIR.

FOR A WORLD'S FAIR.

There was an important meeting yesterday afternoon of some of the members of the Executive and Finance Committees of the World's Fair Commission. Among those present were William A. Cole, W. A. Wheelock, Thomas Rutter, Frederick L. Talcott, James Talcott Charles Schlesinger, Samuel A. Haines, General Clinten B. Fisk, Algernon S. Sullivan and Thomas McElrath. The meeting was strictly private, and its object, as one of the Commissioners said, was to arrange an order of business for the regular weekly meeting on Wednesday.

At its conclusion one of the Commissioners said to a Tribunk reporter that the result of the commissioners who had been soliciting subscriptions presented their accounts, and it was found that the total amount of these, conditional and unconditional, was nearly $900.000, which was a larger amount than was anticipated. Mr. Cole and Mr. Rutter, members of the committee the duty of which has been to solicit subscriptions from the transportation companies, said that the committee would be ready to make its report Wednesday. They did not state what their report would be, but their tone implied that they had been very seccessful in their negotiations. After an informal talk about the Fair the conference broke up. The Commissioners were in the best of spirits, and seemed very confident of the ultimate success of the Exhibition. Several of them were seen, however to gather around Algernon S. Sullivan with very severe expressions upon their countenances. Their conversation was in an undertone, but it seemed carnest.

The agent of the luwood site was present, and he waited two hours until the meeting was ended. He Libels have been filed against the steamship City of Alexandria, of Alexandre's Havana Line, and the British Empire, an English steamship chartered by the same line, for carrying quantities of opium from this port to Havana without entering it on the manifest. It is stated that this opium was shipped in packages of merchandise by a prominent firm in this city, and that the steamship company ought not to be liable, as ne company has the right to examine every package shipped by its vessels unless there are reasonable suspicions as to the contents. The bill of lading, which is supposed to specify the number of packages and their contents, it is thought, should be sufficient, especially in the case of houses of good standing. If evidence of fraud is afterward discovered, it is believed that the most equitable plan would be the prosecution of the shippers. It is also stated that persons both here and in Havana are engaged in shipping and receiving contraband goods, and that the only way to detect them is to have an official and critical examination by Government officers. A case is mentioned of barrels being recently shipped to Havana, which were stated on the bill of lading to contain a superior quality of sand. They were taken as fourth-class freight. In transit however, one of the barrels burst, and the contents were found to be packages of a powder valued at about $10 a package. NOT SPECIFIED IN THE BILLS OF LADING.

URGING CANAL REFORM.

A meeting of canal boatmen and persons interested in canal reform was held at McNally's Hall, No. 10 South-st, last evening. W. C. Clarke presided. Resolutions were unanimously adopted recommending the passage of the bill for regulating the rates for trimming, elevating, weighing and delivering grain through elevators and storehouses. The bill provides for the abolition of insurance rebates levied on canal cargoes, and the abolition of excessive and unjust charges upon the State's commerce. The resolutions also urged the passage of the proposed amendment to the Constitution introduced by Senator Forster providing for the entire freedom of the canals; emphasized the necessity of deepening the Eric Canal and making other improvements, such as lengthening the berm tier of locks to 200 feet, the removal of obstructions, the abolition of superfluous offices, and approved of the investigations of abuses in canal commerce at

That the streets generally are in a very lead condition everyone knows, but the quantity of fifth me so busy a thoroughfare as Thud-ave is a particularly serious grievance. The sidewalk on each side of the avenue was lined from the Bowery to Eightieth-st, with overflowing ash-barrels yesterday; fourteen were coanted in front of one hot se, lu many places the garbage had been emptied into the street, after which the barrels were again filled, and from the appearance of many of the heaps of filth it was evident that this must have been repeated many times. In places the piles of recking refuse were higher than the sidewalk, and pedestrains were compelled to wade through it. The todors arising from the heaps were sickening. Above Seventieth-st, the avenue was, if possible, in a still more disgraceful condition. Between Seventy-sixth and Seventy-seventh-sts, large quantities of the frozen snow still remain, and it is now mixed with slimy mud and kitchen refuse, and is in places over three teet deep. Any attempt to cross the street would be deastrous. In Seventy sixth-st, between Third and Fourth-aves, and near the elevated railroad station, the street is covered to the depth of from two to three feet with a mixture of ashes, kitchen refuse, iee, snow and mind, and the atmosphere is thick and heavy with toul smells. A wagen way just wide enough to allow one vehicle to pass has been made, while near the sidewalk the heaps are at least four feet in height. Some surprise is appressed by health officials at the large increase in the death rate of the city during the last few months. Doctors say that if the fifth should be removed from the streets the mortality might decrease considerably. VILE CONDITION OF THIRD AVENUE. decrease considerably.

JUDGE CHOATE'S RESIGNATION.

The resignation of Judge Choate was the subject of frequent discussion in and about the United States courts yesterday. The opinion was universal that his retirement will be a great loss to the Bench. The question as to who his successor is likely to be was also discussed. The name of Thomas Simons, now Assistant Attorney-General at Washington, was mentioned for the position. He was a candidate for the judgeship at the time of Judge Choate's appointment, and was an Assistant United States Attorney for this district under District Attornies Daniel S. Dickinson, Samuel G. ALIMONY REDUCED IF NOT NEEDED.

The General Term of the Court of Common Pleas decided yesterday that the amount of alimony granted in a case may be reduced when the circumstances under which it was granted have changed. Mary F. Kerr obtained in 1863 a decree of absolute divorce against her husband, William J. Kerr, and an allowance of alimony of $1,800 a year for the support of herself and children. All of the children have since become of age, and Mrs. Kerr has received property from 'ner mother's estate of the value of about $436 a year. An application was made recently on the part of Mr. Kerr for a reduction of the amount of alimony on the above grounds, and the Court at Special Term held that it had no power to grant the application; but the General Term reversed the order.
